How "Carmina Burana" and Nazi Germany are Linked

Carl Orff (July 10, 1895–March 29, 1982) was a German composer and educator who is best known for his research into how children learn music. He published his first compositions at age 16 and studied music in Munich prior to World War I. After serving in the war, Orff returned to Munich, where he co-founded a children's art school and taught music.
