Critical Reading v. Critical Thinking

Critical reading is a technique for discovering information and ideas within a text; critical thinking is a technique for evaluating information and ideas, for deciding what to accept and believe.

Reading Critically Between The Lines / The Critical ... Reading is quite possibly the most important skill a student must acquire in order to succeed in school and in life. In this discussion, reading is not limited to the ability to recognize the words on the page. It includes the ability to understand and evaluate the meaning of a written passage as well as the ability to compare it to others the student has read. This is what is referred to by critical reading and it is at the core of the The Critical Thinking Co. philosophy.

The Art of Close Reading (Part One) - Critical thinking The Art of Close Reading (Part One) To read well requires one to develop one's thinking about reading and, as a result, to learn how to engage in the process of what we call close reading. Students not only need to learn how to determine whether a text is worth reading, but also how to take ownership of a text's important ideas (when it contains them). This requires the active use of What Makes A Good Reader? / The Critical Thinking Co.

The Critical Thinking Co. products provide exercises, games, and assignments for improving not only reading skills but also for improving thinking skills. There are products for students at all age levels and at all levels of development. Whether you are trying to give your child a head start or to help your child catch up, The Critical Thinking Co. can give you results.

Reading and Writing for Critical Thinking (RWCT)

The Reading and Writing for Critical Thinking program (RWCT) is based on the idea that democratic practices in schools play an important role in the transition toward more open societies.

What is Critical Thinking? - Critical Reading

We are thinking critically when we: recognize the relevance and/or merit of alternative assumptions and perspectives; recognize the extent and weight of evidence. In sum, Critical thinkers are by nature skeptical. They approach texts with the same skepticism and suspicion as they approach spoken remarks. Critical thinkers are active, not passive. They ask questions and analyze. They consciously apply tactics and strategies to uncover meaning or assure their understanding.
